FEATURED INSTRUCTORS

Lt. Colonel Paul Boland

In early 2000, Paul discovered Mary Wanless's Ride with Your Mind (RWYM) method and received his certification as a RWYM Rider Biomechanics Coach in April 2015. Paul has a comprehensive understanding of biomechanics concepts and principles and has a skillful eye for determining a rider's areas to address. Paul effectively communicates the biomechanics methods and skillfully uses verbal instruction, imagery, physical demonstration and alignment to guide the rider through the body biomechanics changes required to greatly improve the rider's stability and effectiveness. Paul will be coaching on both Saturday and Sunday, as well as speaking and hosting Q&A sessions.

Wayne G. Hipsley BSc, MSc

Wayne has many years of professional experience in the horse industry, including judging and teaching Working Equitation both in the US and internationally. He believes that working equitation is a sport for all horses, and all stages of training. The horse must be responsive and learning the proper techniques to execute maneuvers or obstacles is vital to the success of the partnership. Wayne will lead us through the fundamentals of working equitation with our equine partners on Friday.

Andrew Judkins

Andrew showed on the Hunter Jumper circuit through high school in Ohio and Kentucky. Colorado State University was his choice for studying equine science. While in Colorado Andrew played polo for the CSU club team and trained and showed horses at a three-day eventing stable. He also volunteered his time at a stable for therapeutic riding.

Moira Bertke

Moira has had a passion for horses since the age of 3 and has 10+ years of experience showing hunters, jumpers, and equitation horses. Growing up, she has won many awards through both the Kentucky Hunter Jumper Association and the Ohio Hunter Jumper Association starting with ground poles and moving all the way up to the 3'6 jumpers. She has recently returned from an internship working and traveling with several A Circuit Hunter/Jumper show barns in the south.
